PLYMOUTH
UNIVERSITY

University of Plymouth, which celebrates its 150th anniversary in 2012, is one of the UK's most prominent and dynamic universities with an educational history dating back to 1862. University of Plymouth is ranked 14th in The Guardian League Table 2018 UK universities ranking. Described by Times Higher Education as among the newly-emerging 'modern global elite', University of Plymouth is ranked inside the top 280 universities in the world, and 42nd in terms of those aged under 50. A twice-winner of the Queen's Anniversary Prize for Higher and Further Education, most recently in 2012, it has been recognised for its innovative teaching, impact-driven approach to research, and the way it works with partners to create socio-economic benefit for the communities.

Plymouth is one of the largest universities in the UK, and has around 28,000 students and 13,000 off-campus students. The University has a long record of high quality innovative research as demonstrated by its achievements in the Research Assessment Exercise (RAE). The RAE 2012 saw Plymouth named as a top 50 research University and the 'most improved' with 80% of its research judged as being of international repute, meaning both the undergraduate and postgraduate students can be proud to be taught by, and work alongside, world-class experts.

The Guardian recently voted Plymouth University as one of the top 20 providers of tourism courses in the UK

Plymouth has been ranked 20th overall out of 49 by the Guardian University Guide 2017: League Table for Hospitality, Events and Tourism and 12th out of 49 overall by the Sunday Times University Guide 2014: Hospitality, Leisure, Recreation and Tourism. The Complete University Guide 2014 ranked the programme 12th place out of 60 for Hospitality, Leisure, Recreation & Tourism.

Plymouth shortlisted for University of the Year 2012

In 2012, University of Plymouth was shortlisted for one of the most coveted and prestigious awards in the national higher education sector. The institution has been named among six finalists for the University of the Year accolade, in the annual Times Higher Education Awards. It was nominated for Entrepreneurial University of the Year - for a third successive time - and in the Business School of the Year category.

Programme Highlights

- Comprehensive coverage of practical and industry-based skills for career development;
- High quality teaching delivered by specialist staff through a variety of teaching methods and activities;
- Lecturers of Plymouth will fly to Hong Kong to teach, and they are experienced and knowledgeable in both the academic and industrial fields;
- Providing a critical understanding of specialised knowledge in order to meet the dynamic needs in the business environment.

Validity Period: 01/09/2015 to 31/08/2019

This tourism management degree programme aims to enable students to gain a broad understanding of the development of tourism and have a critical awareness of the issues that underpin best practice in this field. The programme also enables students to meet the changing demands of society and the economy, and develop vocationally relevant managerial skills needed for employment or further study. In particular, students will be able to integrate subject specific knowledge and transferable skills to develop a specialist topic in depth, conduct a research investigation, and effectively report the findings in the Honours Project module.

This hospitality degree programme is designed to provide a strong vocational theme relevant for a wide range of employment sectors in the hospitality industry. Hospitality embraces a wide range of sectors including: contract catering, hotels, leisure (such as theatres and casinos), licensed retail (pubs and clubs), restaurants and welfare catering. Hospitality continues to be one of the largest growth industries. Its successful management depends on high quality business skills and the ability to provide consumer satisfaction. This programme aims to equip students with appropriate knowledge and understanding of hospitality and to develop their skills needed for employment or further study.

Leadership activity in HKU Flora Ho Sports Centre and Stanley Smith Swimming Pool (Sept 2016)

Duration of Study and Award

With full exemptions granted, students can complete the programme in 1.5 years. The two bachelor programmes confer offshore degrees carrying the same academic status and recognition as those offered to University of Plymouth's on-campus graduates.

Students are expected to graduate from the registered programme of study upon satisfactory completion of all stated modules and the honours project, and they will be awarded the Bachelor of Science (Honours) Tourism Management/Bachelor of Science (Honours) Hospitality Management from University of Plymouth.

Teaching Mode

University of Plymouth and HKU SPACE are jointly responsible for teaching various modules and delivering the honours project through consultations, tutorials and workshops. Teaching methods include lectures, tutorials, field trips, guest speaker talks, revision sessions and individual/group projects.

Assessment

All coursework of the programme will be conducted in English.

The mode of assessment is different from module to module but will be generally based on a combination of coursework (including assignments and tests/ projects). Throughout the programme, students will be assessed by a combination of:

- Report Writing
- Case-study assignments
- Oral presentation
- Project
- Tests (open/closed book) - if applicable

Further Studies

During the programme, students will develop independent thinking skills, critical analysis of current hospitality and tourism management knowledge. Honours degree students will undertake a final-year project which includes data collection and analysis. Therefore, students will be well-equipped with research skills necessary for further studies. Graduates are eligible to apply for relevant master's degree programmes.

Plymouth Summer School

Students will have a valuable opportunity to take part in the Summer School course organised by University of Plymouth for two or four weeks in July/August so as to improve their English communication skills, meet people from around the world, and experience school life in Plymouth. This Summer School is optional and its costs are additional to the programme's tuition fee.

Plymouth Summer School Programme (Aug 2016)

Work Placement

Students will have opportunities to voluntarily participate in various tourism, hospitality and event job placements in Hong Kong in order to gain more exposure and polish their customer service skills.

Career Opportunities

Our programmes are designed with the vision of developing high-calibre tourism and hospitality managers with an international perspective. Each course is designed to produce graduates who have the skills to function and communicate in the exciting industry, one of the world's fastest growing fields. Learning is enriched through a wide range of activities, in particular professional talks, case study discussions and field trips which blend business management perspectives with local insight. Graduates can also consider working in service industries that appreciate their transferable management skills and aptitude developed from the programmes.

Tuition Fee

The tuition fee* for the 2017/18 academic year is HK$94,200, payable over 3 semesters. The tuition fee covers all the fees charged by University of Plymouth, which include application handling fee and assessment fee. The fee for textbook, re-sitting for assessments, re-submission of assessments, and repeating the studies for each module of study is not included.

* The tuition fee is reviewed annually and is subject to change without prior notice.

Continuing Education Fund

Selected modules in the programmes have been included in the list of reimbursable courses for CEF purposes. For details, please refer to www.wfsfaa.gov.hk/cef.

According to the terms and conditions of the CEF, students seeking reimbursement of the fees under CEF must not have obtained any other publicly-funded financial assistance, such as FASP, for the same programme/modules to avoid double benefits. For details, please refer to <http://www.wfsfaa.gov.hk/cef>.
