The University of Plymouth, which celebrates its 160th anniversary in 2022, is one of the UK's most prominent and dynamic universities with an educational history dating back to 1862. The University of Plymouth was ranked 41st overall in The Guardian League Table 2022 UK universities ranking. Described by Times Higher Education as among the newly-emerging 'modern global elite', University of Plymouth is ranked inside the top 280 universities in the world, and 42nd in terms of those aged under 50.

The University of Plymouth is renowned for high quality, internationally-leading education, research and innovation.

With a mission to Advance Knowledge and Transform Lives, Plymouth is consistently rated amongst the top modern universities in the UK, with over two thirds of research rated as "world leading" or of "international quality" in the most recent Research Excellence Framework 2021. A three-time winner of the Queen's Anniversary Prize for Higher and Further Education, the University continues to grow in stature and reputation.

It has a strong track record for teaching and learning excellence and has one of the highest numbers of National Teaching Fellows of any UK university. With over 19,000 students, and a further 9,500 studying for Plymouth degree at partner institutions in the UK and around the world, and over 135,000 alumni based in 135 countries around the globe pursuing their chosen careers globally, it has a growing global presence.

The mission of Plymouth Business School is to put business ready graduates on the path to a successful career and happy life. With a focus on learning by doing through live briefs, experiential education and students as active researchers the lecturers are dedicated to building resilience, decision making and leadership capabilities in our students.

Staff within the Tourism and Hospitality teaching team also undertake exciting and innovative research covering such subjects as: genocide heritage; tourism and crime prevention; tourism employability; and the development of tourism and heritage related narratives. Plymouth staff have also published articles in top-rated tourism journals such as the Annals of Tourism Research and Tourism Management.

The Guardian recently voted University of Plymouth as one of the top 29 providers of Hospitality, Events and Tourism courses in the UK

Plymouth has been ranked 29th by the Guardian University Guide 2022: League Table for Hospitality, Events and Tourism. The Complete University Guide 2022 ranked the programmes 11th place out of 57 for Tourism, Transport, Travel & Heritage Studies.

Bachelor of Science (Honours) International Tourism Management# 國際旅遊業管理(榮譽)理學士

Bachelor of Science (Honours) International Tourism Management (Cruise)# 國際旅遊業(郵輪)管理(榮譽)理學士

This international tourism management degree programme aims to enable students to gain a broad understanding of the development of tourism and have a critical awareness of the issues that underpin best practice in this field. The programme also enables students to meet the changing demands of society and the economy, and develop vocationally relevant managerial skills needed for employment or further study. In particular, students will be able to integrate subject specific knowledge and transferable skills to develop a specialist topic in depth, conduct a research investigation, and effectively report the findings in the Honours Project module.

This international tourism management (cruise) degree programme aims to enable students to gain a thorough understanding of this unique employment area and have a critical awareness of the issues that underpin best practice. In addition, the programme enables students to develop vocationally relevant managerial skills needed for employment in the global cruise industry and the wider hospitality sector. Overnight cruise line field trip and cruise terminal visits will be arranged for students to deepen their understandings of the cruise industry (where possible). Students will also have an opportunity to apply for the short-term internship on international cruise lines, such as Royal Caribbean International, and Kai Tak Cruise Terminal as this programme aims to provide a world class education for those considering the cruise industry as a genuine career choice.

Bachelor of Science (Honours) International Tourism Management and Bachelor of Science (Honours) International Tourism Management (Cruise) programmes are accredited by the Hong Kong Council for Accreditation of Academic and Vocational Qualifications for a period from September 2023 to August 2028.

Programme Structure

The two programmes consist of 7 modules (20 credits each, except for Honours Project and The Tourism Experience with 40 credits). Students who complete all modules (180 credits) will obtain Bachelor of Science (Honours) International Tourism Management/Bachelor of Science (Honours) International Tourism Management (Cruise). Under extenuating circumstances, students may be eligible to exit from the programme and obtain an ordinary degree, Bachelor of Science International Tourism Management/Bachelor of Science International Tourism Management (Cruise), upon completion of 140 credits (40 credits at FHEQ level 5 and 100 credits at FHEQ level 6, or 60 credits at FHEQ level 5 and 80 credits at FHEQ level 6).

This hospitality management degree programme is designed to provide a strong vocational theme relevant for a wide range of employment sectors in the hospitality industry. Hospitality embraces a wide range of sectors including: contract catering, hotels, leisure (such as theatres and casinos), licensed retail (pubs and clubs), restaurants and welfare catering. Hospitality continues to be one of the largest growth industries. Its successful management depends on high-quality business skills and the ability to provide consumer satisfaction. This programme aims to equip students with appropriate knowledge and understanding of hospitality and to develop their skills needed for employment or further study.

This events management degree programme aims to develop a range of professional event planning and management knowledge and skills distinctive of an employable, professionally competent international event management practitioner. It develops students' competence in applying appropriate theories and concepts of international event management to practical situations, so that they can be equipped for a career in the festival, event and related service sectors.

Duration of Study and Award

With full exemptions granted, students can complete the programmes in 18 months. The four bachelor programmes confer offshore degrees carrying the same academic status and recognition as those offered to University of Plymouth's on-campus graduates.

Students are expected to graduate from the registered programme of study upon satisfactory completion of all stated modules and the honours project, and they will be awarded the Bachelor of Science (Honours) International Tourism Management/Bachelor of Science (Honours) Hospitality Management/Bachelor of Science (Honours) International Tourism Management (Cruise)/Bachelor of Science (Honours) Events Management by the University of Plymouth.

Teaching Mode

The University of Plymouth and HKU SPACE are jointly responsible for teaching various modules and delivering the honours project through consultations, tutorials and workshops. Plymouth lecturers will fly over to Hong Kong to deliver four modules face-to-face and deliver one module online. Two modules will be taught solely by HKU SPACE teachers. Specialism modules may be taught in weekday evenings and/or weekend daytime. Teaching methods include lectures, tutorials, field trips, guest speaker talks, revision sessions and individual/group projects.

Assessment

All coursework of the programme will be conducted in English.

The mode of assessment for each module is different from module to module but will be generally based on a combination of coursework (including assignments and tests/projects).

Throughout the programme, students will be assessed by a combination of:

- Report Writing
- Case-study assignments
- Oral presentation
- Project
- Tests (open/closed book) - if applicable

On Campus Transfer

Overseas study opportunities for a full semester will be available for several students to study in Plymouth with all Hong Kong credits being counted toward the qualification. No additional tuition fees will be applied, however, accommodation, flight and other personal expenses will be on the own expenses of students. Financial subsidies may be available, please consult programme staff for more information.

Exchange Programme (2020)

Further Studies

Upon graduation, students will have developed independent thinking skills, critical analysis of current hospitality and tourism management knowledge. Honours degree students will have undertaken a final-year project which includes data collection and analysis, therefore, students will be well-equipped with research skills necessary for further studies. Graduates with second-class honours are eligible to apply for the Master of Science Tourism and Hospitality Management programme, in collaboration with University of Plymouth at HKU SPACE (Full time: 12 months; Part time: 18 months), and they can enjoy 10% alumni discount of tuition fee.

Work Placement

Students will have opportunities to voluntarily participate in various tourism, hospitality, event, and cruise related job placements & internship in Hong Kong in order to gain more exposure and polish their customer service skills. Previous students worked for Hong Kong Disneyland, Hong Kong Trade Development Council, Clockenflap Music & Arts Festival, Hong Kong Cyclothon, etc.

Career Opportunities

Our programmes are designed with the vision of developing high-calibre tourism, hospitality, cruise and event managers with an international perspective. Each module is designed to produce graduates who have the skills to function and communicate in the exciting industry, one of the world's fastest growing fields. Learning is enriched through a wide range of activities, in particular professional talks, case study discussions and field trips which blend business management perspectives with local insight. Graduates can also consider working in service industries that appreciate their transferable management skills and aptitude developed from the programmes.

For international tourism management (cruise) programme, the University of Plymouth has strong links with a number of global cruise companies and work in partnership with Celebrity Cruises (RCL), P&O and Cunard (Carnival UK). Currently, there are University of Plymouth main campus students working on-board as guest relations officers, food and beverage officers and in shore excursions departments with both Celebrity Cruise and P&O Cruises.

Tuition Fee

The tuition fee* for the 2023/24 academic year is HK$105,000, payable over 3 semesters. The tuition fee covers all the fees charged by University of Plymouth, which include application handling fee and assessment fee. The fees for textbook, re-sitting for assessments, resubmission of assessments, and repeating the studies for each module of study are not included. Additional fees of overnight cruise line field trip are not included.

* The tuition fee is reviewed annually and is subject to change without prior notice.
