

EXECUTIVE PROGRAMME: COLLECTING CONTEMPORARY ART 2016

Module 4. Managing and Maintaining a Collection

Date: 12th March, 2016, Saturday

Jody Beenk

Head, Preservation and Conservation, University of Hong Kong Libraries

Jody Beenk is currently Head of Preservation and Conservation at HKU Libraries. Prior to her time in Hong Kong she worked in rare books conservation for collections at Princeton and Harvard University. She is a Professional Associate of the American Institute for Conservation (AIC) and has served on committees and boards for AIC, the Guild of Book Workers and the journal Heritage Science.

The Preservation Division seeks to sustain and enhance the collections of the University of Hong Kong Libraries by preserving and making accessible the Libraries' holdings for current and future users. The Division serves as a focal point for intellectual and academic endeavours throughout Hong Kong, Asia and the rest of the world. The Division has been running series of workshops designed to pass on their specialist preservation and conservation knowledge to the public and others involved in associated industries.
